Flowsent Weed Delivery wants to emphasize that they are offering marijuana delivery service only without a physical location. Their menu includes weed flowers, pre-rolls, edibles, tinctures, topicals, concentrates. They are an award-winning marijuana delivery service that specializes in delivering the best quality cannabis products to the customer's door. They are committed to providing their customers with high-quality products and excellent customer service. They are ready to serve the needs of people who are looking for the best weed delivery service in the Bay Area communities, including San Rafael.

One of the products offered by the company is cannabidiol (CBD), which is a non-psychoactive compound in cannabis with various medical applications. CBD has been observed to be helpful for people with insomnia, chronic pain, anxiety, inflammation as well as those who have childhood epilepsy. CBD oil is very popular because it is easy to use, whether it is placed under the tongue, applied on the skin, or included in food or drink.

Another product offered the company are cannabis flower strains that are available in the form of "nugs" or "buds," which continue to be the most popular way to enjoy cannabis, followed by vape products. The cannabis flower is that part of hemp that can be cultivated and smoked. This can be smoked out of a pipe, bong, chillum, or rolled in a joint. The team at Flowsent Weed Delivery is ready to provide customers with information about the basics of cannabis, including new cannabis appellations, while also ensuring that they supply customers with their favorite ways of consuming it.

Flowsent Weed Delivery can also deliver cannabis topical products. It is important to note that these topical products do not make the user high because tetrahydrocannabinol (THC), which is the main psychoactive ingredient of cannabis, will not penetrate the skin and enter the bloodstream. The THC ingredient contained in a topical product are only there to provide the entourage effect, particularly when the topical product is being use for treating pain externally. The ideal ratio for CBD and THC for pain-relieving products is 2:1. This is because the body has cannabinoid receptors all over the body, including the skin. CBD and THC synergistically work together to engage certain receptors in the skin. And studies have found that cannabinoid receptors in the skin can regulate inflammation.

Flowsent Weed Delivery also provides cannabis concentrates, which offer a whole new way of enjoying cannabis. While smoking cannabis flower continues to be the most popular way for cannabis patients to use cannabis, seasoned dabbers have switched to using higher levels of THC and CBD and get better flavor. To produce concentrates, the flower undergoes an extraction process where all the terpenes, THC, flavor, etc. are concentrated. Using concentrates require a slightly different set of tools. Rather than rolling papers or pipes to smoke the cannabis flower, the concentrates are placed in a heated bowl and the user inhales the vapor as the concentrate melts.

Also available from Flowsent Weed Delivery are prerolls, which offer an easy and portable way for people to use cannabis. They also allow the user to try a broad range of strains, from sativas, indicas, hybrids, and many more.

They can also provide vape products, such as vape pens, vape batteries, and vape cartridges. The vape battery is small and portable while the cartridges are filled with cannabis oil, which may be CBD or THC. Vape pens are popular because they are easy to use and for beginners, they offer a milder, easy-to-control experience.

And finally, Flowsent Weed Delivery offers cannabis edibles. It is important to note that not all edibles are made the same. It is advisable to always check the amounts of THC and CBD in these edibles. It is important for consumers of edibles to always check the label. Furthermore, starting small is advisable. Micro dosing is a popular trend in cannabis use. Foods infused with CBD also offer a popular way of medicating.
