Based on the latest news update, Dr Kerry Chant, a Queensland doctor and public health expert has warned that the Delta strain of the flu is extra transmissible. In addition to this troubling characteristic, she warns that it can also transmit among children which we have not seen with previous outbreaks due to its high transmission rate.

As such Dr Chant "firmly believes" in vaccinating 12-15 year olds now before they are exposed to more dangerous strains because when these people get older their immune systems may be too weakened from exposure or other illnesses for vaccination against current strains of COVID-19 would work as well as adults who need protection since they're at an increased risk themselves.

The latest outbreak of the COVID19 is affecting Australian-based companies, amidst the pandemic Future Electrics remains operational amidst all restrictions.

Future Electrics are still open to serve their customers by following protocols from the government. All of their staff are trained and equipped with the proper protocol in social distancing, plus health and safety precautions to ensure that they only do what is necessary for the safety of everybody.

Future Electric Services ensures the safety of its workers by complying with all workplace health and safety standards. Their electricians are fully licensed and provide quality service to customers in need.

The Management is up for the challenge and continue to serve their clients as well as possible through these trying times.

Future Electric's customers are completely aware of the protocols set in place by the government and have no qualms against the implementation of these protocols that ensure only a healthy and safe environment is provided. Their company policy ensures no changes in their service to customers and the safety of their workforce.

Being featured in the Series Space Invaders (TV Series) , they announce that their services are open 24/7. Future Electrics offer a wide range of services, including:

Commercial electrical services, Electrical repairs, Domestic electrical services, Fault finding, Electricity for renovations, Lights, Electrical installations, Power points, Electrical maintenance, Air conditioning
