October 13, 2015

October 13, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Stevo Zarvanjski, Sales Representative with Right At Home Realty, Inc., Brokerage, has announced a new publication. Stevo's Epic Real Estate News is a newsletter provided for Canadians, although Stevo states that it provides the most benefit for those who live in the Greater Toronto Area (GTA).

He explains, "We just want to offer information to people in our area about a number of interesting things."

The newsletter will quote experts from various different industries to share their tricks and secrets. "The newsletter will be packed with information on how to do nearly anything in the world," states Zarvanjski.

Even though interested consumers will be signing up for a real estate newsletter technically, Stevo also plans to add useful tips on other topics of interest. Topics may include wealth building, cost of living increase, threats and dangers to general health, and other subjects that are popular with consumers both online and offline.

Zarvanjski reveals that the newsletter will show readers how to save money, build residual income, increase equity in their homes and other assets, and generally build their wealth. He says it's also about living in the GTA and the properties that may be available. "We've added a bit of everything," he declares. He says that one of the main reasons for building and publishing the newsletter is to provide information to consumers so that they are no longer wasting time and money by purchasing eBooks and other resources for this type of information.

Those who live in or around the Greater Toronto Area are encouraged to visit the website at <http://www.epicrealestatenews.com/> and see what the newsletter will entail. It should be noted that Stevo Zarvanjski provides real estate assistance and advice, in addition to his new publication which offers insights into various other topics.
