Carabin Shaw, a local Texas personal injury law firm, is drawing attention to an accident that took place at a Harris County railroad crossing on September 8, 2021. Readers can find out more about the law firm by heading over to its website at <https://carabinshaw.com>.

KTRK News, an ABC owned-and-operated television station licensed to Houston, Texas, reported that a Kansas City Southern train crashed into an 18-wheeler at a busy northeast Harris County railroad crossing at FM 2100 and FM 1960 just after 7 AM on September 8, 2021. The driver of the big rig died in the collision, as confirmed by Sheriff Ed Gonzalez.

A video of the crash from a nearby camera showed the train stopped on the tracks. The cab of the semi-truck was on the tracks when it was hit by the train, which then pushed it about 30 feet down the tracks. The truck was headed northbound on FM 2100 and the train was headed east on the tracks before the crash. The crash also caused a hazmat situation due to a large fuel spill from the semi-truck and cleanup took up to 6 hours while keeping FM 2100 closed. Carabin Shaw is taking this opportunity to appeal to private and commercial vehicle owners to follow all safety guidelines when out on the road, especially around railroads where any complacency could lead to fatal results. The law firm is reminding drivers of common-sense precautions that should be observed and that the law requires them to follow.

A spokesperson for the law firm says, "It is important to understand that trains take longer than cars to stop. So any mistake on part of the driver can have deadly consequences as the driver of the train will not have the power to stop it safely in time. So it is always recommended to reduce your speed when approaching crossings and to look both ways before driving onto them. You should look and listen for trains even if the red lights and crossing arms aren't active as sometimes the machinery can be faulty. Only drive when all the tracks are clear before crossing as there may be more than one set. If red lights are flashing or if the crossing arms have been lowered, in no circumstances should you attempt to cross. When you are crossing the tracks, never stop and keep going until you cover the whole length and every part of your vehicle is clear of the train's path. If your vehicle happens to break down on the tracks, get out and dial 9-1-1 immediately."

The law firm also reminds drivers that Texas law requires drivers to yield the right of way to trains. It is also against the law to cross tracks if a train is visible or to drive around gates that have been lowered at a railroad crossing. Finally, if the crossing arms are lowered and no train is coming, the road is closed.
