Brooklyn, New York - Family law is often centered around the times that challenge a couple and their family. Divorce, child custody, division of property, spousal support, visitation, and child support; all of these can be highly charged decisions that may affect everybody involved, both emotionally and financially. When strong feelings run high, it is frequently hard for couples to think clearly about the consequences of their actions and choices during a divorce.

Juan Luciano, Esq., a knowledgeable divorce attorney in Brooklyn, New York, understands his function as the emotional, financial, and legal advocate for his clients. There is often a fine line in between being a support system for his clients, keeping ongoing keeping open communication lines between partners and yet understanding when to bring out the aggressive steps needed to ensure that his clients' rights and best results are being totally represented.

"Most of the time, I'm dealing with clients who may be going through a very difficult and vulnerable time. , they are required to make sensitive decisions that will affect them and their children for several years to come," explained the divorce attorney. "Although I understand that I can't eliminate the discomfort they may be feeling, I can help make these important choices. The important decisions should be made while keeping the client's psychological comfort and their dignity as an important element in all our discussions. While we attempt to keep open lines of interaction and cooperation with the other partner, there are some circumstances when this is not possible or efficient, and we have to count on more aggressive methods. I try to take my cue from the client whenever I can, but, I likewise have to be honest with them. It is a fine line that we must walk as attorneys."

Mr. Luciano believes in the power of empathy and respect and credits his success to his willingness to treat his family law clients with a level of sensitivity. While cooperative techniques are always his very first go-to approach, he understands there are times when cooperation may no longer be worthwhile. Because of his unique approach, Mr. Luciano continues to garner favorable testimonials from his clients.

Adela Ngoc from Brooklyn, New York states: "Mr. Luciano is the best divorce lawyer in NYC. Very pleasant and kind, experienced, encouraging, but in court, he is a fighter. He helped me get child custody and was always responsive to each concern. When working with Mr. Luciano you always receive individual attention, he knew every little detail of my case and was always there to help and guide me. He is a wonderful Brooklyn divorce attorney. In addition to being a wonderful guy!"

Because divorce often influences the rest of a person's life, Juan Luciano works hard to bring legal talent and his years of experience to secure the very best outcome for each client he represents. Although an individual may feel upset and grief-stricken during the proceedings, Mr. Luciano comprehends that life does go on after a divorce, and the decisions made in the middle of the chaos will color the future for the law company's customers. Mr. Luciano attempts to supply a level of clear-mindedness at a time when his family law clients may not have the ability to think clearly.

With a knowledgeable divorce attorney navigating the way, a difficult situation can often be adeptly worked out, thus making it possible for each partner to reach common ground. Mr. Luciano believes that getting the right representation can make a big difference in the cooperation and tone between partners during the divorce process.
