A spokesperson for the company talks about its commitment to medical marijuana by saying, "We have spent years building a solid reputation among medical patients and strongly support the use of medical marijuana. We understand the needs of medical patients that may have trouble purchasing their medicine from a dispensary for any number of reasons and believe they shouldn't be forced to have to buy illegally on the streets. We have made the decision to offer full access to our site to medical patients in Canada so they may have safe access to their medicine at any time."

The spokesperson talks about the store's high-quality products and exceptional product safety record by saying, "We try our best to handpick products from manufacturers that are not only known for their product quality but also their rigorous quality control that ensures only the safest products leave the manufacturing line. Our manufacturers are vetted for their world-class safety record to make sure that our customers will never have an adverse reaction to any of our products. When you buy with us you can freely purchase products that suit your personal cannabis consumption taste without worrying about safety."
