Acacia Dental Group, a dental practice in Phillip, ACT, Australia, wants to point out that they are always focused on providing the best dental services for residents of Woden in the Australian Capital Territory, including surrounding areas. Having ensured that they are always up-to-date and are able to offer the most modern dental services available, it is important to note that the modern day dentistry that they can provide has evolved to cater to patients who do not only require oral healthcare services but also cosmetic and restorative dentistry. Simply put, they have made it their job to bring back the patients' beautiful smile.

Sirisha Yalamanchili, one of the two key dentists at Acacia Dental Group, says, "It's our job to put the smile on your face. We are here to help maintain your oral hygiene and restore your smile, so you look and feel your best. We offer a range of advanced dental procedures that will help restore your smile, such as root canal therapy, adult orthodontics, child orthodontics, cosmetic dentistry, teeth whitening, porcelain veneers, dental implants, and single visit dental crowns.?"

They also offer flexible payment options because they don't want patients having to make that difficult choice between their oral health and their finances. That is why they have partnered with HUMM, which is a flexible and no interest payment plan option that allows a person to get the needed dental treatment and then pay off the amount over an agreed period of time. Bulk billing is applicable for those registered with the Department of Veterans Affairs and also for the routine dental treatments of children 12 years old and below. They are also currently working on a new partnership with a preferred lender with low interest financing. They also accept all health funds. They are a preferred provider for HCF, CBHS, and Medibank Private.

The best Woden dentist services provided by Acacia Dental is not just for general dentistry but also for cosmetic dentistry procedures. These include: white dental fillings, inlays and overlays, CEREC technology, teeth whitening, veneers, and crowns and bridges. White dental fillings provide an alternative to the traditional silver amalgam. Dental fillings are used to repair tooth cavities and other areas of decay in the teeth but the silver amalgam used makes them noticeable. Today, composite resin is used and it offers several advantages, such as better appearance, durability, stability, and compatibility.

Meanwhile, inlays and onlays are used to fill large cavities to avoid the need for root canal treatment in the future. Inlays and onlays always fit comfortably to the patient's teeth because they are custom-made in the laboratory. And because porcelain is now more commonly used, these inlays and onlays are now a discrete cosmetic solution.

They also used CEREC technology, which utilises computer-aided design in making veneers, crowns, fixed bridges, dental implants and more. When a patient needs a restoration, the tooth or teeth will be prepared, and a three-dimensional digital scan will be performed with the CEREC machine. With this technology, the patient will see the images on the screen and is able to visualize the kind of treatment that will be performed. The CEREC machine will then be used in creating the restoration right there and then. The dentist will just have to polish and fit the restoration and the patient will have recovered his or her smile. The benefits of CEREC technology include the fact that it offers: a permanent solution, a cost-effective treatment, a rapid design process, natural looking teeth, and a high precision process.
