Bellriver Homes, a home design company in NSW, Australia, is happy to announce that they are offering a free home design consultation at their display centre in Austral to help people discover the best design for their dream home. This display centre allows clients to have a vision of what their new home would look like. They offer a flexible approach to home design and styling, allowing clients to customize their home according to their style and preferences. They offer various urban designs with several alternatives for the facade and the external parts of the home, including some amount of flexibility for the floor plan.

Christine Gatwood, a spokesperson for Bellriver Homes, says, "We consider our quality control systems and after sales service to be one of the most important areas of our business. Every customer is allocated their own "customer service consultant" to care for their every need. Once construction begins, you will be assigned your own project supervisor, who will keep you informed throughout the building process. We manage and track every building project through a comprehensive software program. In essence, nothing is left to chance."

To get an idea of the kinds of home designs available, people can check out their display home in Austral. Their most popular single storey home on display in Austral is the Bayswater 20, which has a total under-roof area of 187.92 square metres, a total home width of 10.91 metres, and a total home length of 18.71 metres. It has four bedrooms, two bathrooms, and a double garage. There is also an optional bedroom and WIP. Various kinds of facades are available, such as: Argenta, Bayside, Broadwater, Cambridge Premium, Cullburra, Contemporary, and more. This modern home is packed with several features, such as multiple living spaces, such as media rooms and big, workable kitchens provided with walk in pantries. These living areas are all designed to flow out onto an oversized alfresco area.

Bellriver Homes has simplified the building process to make it more enjoyable for the client. The basic steps are: choosing a particular design; development of the client's own style; drafting and local council submission; colour selection; and construction.

The first step is for the client to choose a particular plan from their extensive range of more than 120 architect developed urban or country designs. All of these home designs take maximum advantage of northern aspect and can easily be mirror reversed for various block sitings. One of the company's consultants can help the client choose a design that will be suitable for a specific budget and preferences.

After a particular design has been chosen, the consultant will then work closely with the client on any changes the client would want to make. After a final plan and facade has been chosen by the client, the design consultant will discuss the schedule of finishes with the client to ensure that all of the client's requirements are met and that the home will be done based on the client's style and taste. The consultant will then provide the client with a fixed price tender. The client will then sign a purchase agreement after the company has received the fixed price tender.

All of the required documentation will then be produced and then submitted to the appropriate local council. This process will usually take about three to seven weeks. The next step is the product and colour selections. A trained colour consultant will help the client in making the various selections, including external finishes, paint colours, brick choice, kitchen selections, floor coverings, and tiles. And finally, they can proceed with the construction process.

Founded in 1993, Bellriver Homes has been focused on designing and building homes throughout New South Wales for more than 27 years, across Sydney, Central Coast, Hunter, the Illawarra, and the Central West of NSW.
