Colorado based Celltronix has recently launched their electronic battery backup, which has been designed to assist mobile device users in recharging their phones and tablets without the need for a wall charger. The product is compatible with the iPhone 6, 6Plus, 5s, 5c, 5 and 4s models, as well as various iPad models. It also works to recharge a variety of Samsung models. The company reports: "With smartphones and tablets becoming more integrated into our daily lives you can't go without this power bank. It is recommended to buy two because many people will likely want to borrow it."

Celltronix points out that this tool is vital in emergency situations, providing dual ports for the charging of one or two devices at a time. The product was designed with the concept of travel in mind, and the company has reported that with a capacity of 15,000 mAh, the battery should have enough to deal with a traveler's power needs for mobile devices. Celltronix has said the following regarding the number of charges provided by each Battery Backup tool: "Charging your devices will be fast with the selection of either 2,200 mAh for one full charge, three full charges with 5,200 mAh, or six full charges with 15,000 mAh. Also if you're in need of a wall charger we carry an integrated wall plug, one full charge 2,600 mAh power bank."

Whether customers use the Backup Battery for iPhone or other mobile device types, Celltronix believes this device is convenient for you use by practically everyone. It has been found to fit securely into purses, school bags, and briefcases, it is small enough to take along on a business trip or leisure trip without taking up too much space. The company offers a one year warranty, and invite new customers to read the feedback from previous shoppers regarding the charger, and leave their own comments and personal experience with the product online.

Those who are interested in obtaining more information about the company and the backup battery can visit the company's Facebook page or its Amazon outlet.
