Santa Ana Tree Experts Uses Tree Pruning to Restore the Health of Client?s White Pines

October 25, 2021 -
Santa Ana, California ? On Thursday, Santa Ana Tree Experts helped a long-term client save his trees from a devastating infection. The company?s Santa Ana tree pruning team removed all the infected branches from the trees, keeping the infection from spreading and potentially killing 5 white pines.

?I am an observant person,? said Dennis, the homeowner whose pines were saved by Santa Ana Tree Experts. ?When I wake up in the morning, I like to go around my landscape, enjoying the look of my tree crowns. On Wednesday, I noticed some peculiar signs on 5 of my white pines. I am very familiar with how most tree diseases operate ? they first infect the leaves, then move on to the branches before finally ending up on the main trunk. To keep the disease from jumping onto the tree trunk, I called Santa Ana Tree Experts immediately.?

The homeowner reported that the company was quick to respond, especially after they learned that his trees were dealing with a health problem. The team sent a professional that evening to assess the trees, determine the health problem affecting them, and then provide a cost estimate.

?The disease had not stayed on the trees for long,? said the Santa Ana Tree Experts CEO, ?We knew if we acted quickly, we would remove the infected branches before the bacteria that was causing the symptoms jumped onto the tree trunk. After Dennis agreed on the details for the tree maintenance procedure, our team of tree cutting professionals in Santa Ana arrived early on Thursday. The team spent 3 hours working on the trees, cutting the branches carefully and then disinfecting the wounds to ensure the bacteria did not get a chance to move on to the trunk.?

The company?s CEO noted that if the homeowner had waited for two more weeks, the bacteria would have reached the trunk. Treating the trunk would have involved using several types of prescriptions and the tree would have required constant monitoring. The CEO noted that this would have been more costly compared to tree pruning.

?Acting quickly helped Dennis save a lot of money,? said Santa Ana Tree Experts CEO, ?If he had procrastinated on requesting tree care, the disease would have forced him to pull out thousands of dollars from his bank account.?

The CEO also confirmed that if the disease had been ignored for more than a month, the tree would have died. This would have forced Dennis to spend much more money on the tree?s removal and replacement.

?One of the reasons we always advise our customers to inspect their trees regularly is to avoid tree death,? said the Santa Ana Tree Experts CEO. ?While the disease on Dennis? trees may have appeared simple, it had the potential to kill his trees. Dead trees are more like sore thumbs ? they stick out negatively, lowering the value of a property. To make matters worse, they often decay from the inside, making them more susceptible to breaking and falling unexpectedly. This means that if his trees had died, the homeowner would have used thousands of dollars on tree removal, not to mention the expenses that would have been needed to replace the trees.?

?Santa Ana Tree Experts continues to amaze me,? said Dennis when asked about his experience with the company. ?I have been using their services for the past 5 years. In addition to ensuring maximum safety while handling tree care procedures in Santa Ana, the company also handles cleanup on my landscape. The company does all this at a very affordable price.?
