Trees increase the aesthetic beauty of a property, giving its landscape boundary and definition to make it stand out. They also greatly increase the home's curb appeal, enabling the property owner to fetch a good return on their initial investment when they try to sell it in the real estate market. Trees also offer a number of quality of life features such as improving the air quality around the property and providing much-needed shade in the right places.

However, the advantages of having trees on a property can only be enjoyed if the property owner vows to stick to a regular tree maintenance schedule. Homeowners usually avoid it because of their lack of knowledge of what it entails and their assumption that it might be prohibitively expensive. Genesis Tree

Service is appealing to homeowners in its service area to research and find out more about the benefits of tree trimming, tree maintenance, and tree removal services in order to dispel the misunderstandings surrounding the trade.

Trees can offer a number of telltale signs that signify that it is time to have them looked at by a professional. These signs include unnatural growth, dead and decaying branches, exposed or damaged roots, leaning too much, disproportionate foliage, storm damage from freezing rain and ice, wind, or lightning, tree pest and insect infestation, and disease. Most of these signs are not obvious to the untrained eye and thus need the certified expertise of a qualified arborist to be spotted. Genesis Tree Service provides trained and experienced arborists that can suggest and carry out the recommended tree care services to save a tree and bring it back to good health.

Genesis Tree Service offers a number of services for both residential and commercial properties including tree trimming, tree pruning, cabling, bracing, insect control treatment, and wound dressing application, just to name a few. The company's tree pruning services include various types of pruning such as crown thinning, crown raising, crown reduction, and tree crown cleaning. The company's experts will analyze the trees on the property and suggest the appropriate method to achieve the property owner's goals.

Crown thinning involves removing secondary branches to create a balanced crown structure without affecting the tree's overall size or shape. Crown raising, also known as canopy lifting, is a technique for reducing the growth of low branches on a regular basis. Crown reduction is a safe and healthy pruning technique that reduces the height of a tree or branch by removing only select limbs to the next lateral growth as close to the tree's frame as possible. Tree crown cleaning is the process of removing unhealthy branches from the crown of a tree.

If a tree is diseased or damaged beyond an acceptable and salvageable limit, it is recommended to remove the tree entirely. Tree removal in Prince William County costs anywhere from $250 to $1500. It depends on the size of the tree, its height, and how deep the root system goes. The company recommends that homeowners should always utilize the services of a professional tree care provider such as themselves because DIY tree cutting can be dangerous to the ones attempting it.
