The company's water damage services include emergency water extraction, drying of structures, cleaning and sealing of contaminated ducting, carpet, upholstery, drapery drying, and mold removal, just to name a few. The company is also well equipped to offer any additional service depending on the extent of the damage on the customer's site.

There can be several reasons for water damage ranging from a leaky or burst pipe to an act of God such as a hurricane or tornado. Water is a strong force of nature that can irreparably damage buildings if not taken care of immediately when spotted. Excel Restoration Service offers a 24/7 service that can help homeowners and property owners respond promptly to a water damage problem to prevent further damage.

The company's professionals respond in time and employ innovative procedures through the use of top-of-the-line equipment to remove water as rapidly and as thoroughly as possible. The company's cutting-edge equipment identifies hidden leftover moisture, removes it fast, completely dries places, and cleans the house and the homeowner's possessions. The company then finishes the process with modern deodorizing and sanitizing chemicals to eliminate residual odors and prevent the possibility of mold development. The company says that it will also document the drying process to ensure that the homeowner's belongings get completely dry and that they have precise evidence for their insurance claim.
