Roofers Near Me Margate is a contractor that has always been known for its quality work and high level of customer service. This includes the company doing whatever it can to make getting roofing services done easier for its customers. As a part of that, this Margate, Florida-based company is now doing free roof estimates 7-days a week. This is very unusual for any type of services provider in this day and age. A representative of the company, Dan Laicor, says, "I think many of us that have management positions in a service-oriented company sometimes forget that there are times when we are customers too. That means that just like with some of our customers, we don't always have a lot of time during the week to meet with a contractor to discuss an upcoming project. This is exactly why we at Roofers Near Me Margate decided that we would start doing inspections on the weekends. That way we can provide our customers the free estimates that they need to make important roof repair decisions."

Laicor continued by saying that so far, the response has been exceptional to them doing inspections on weekends. They have also been doing inspections a little later in the day too to accommodate their customers' schedules better. He says that having more convenient inspection times also. Currently, the company's listed service hours are Monday thru Friday 8:00 AM ? 9:00 PM, Saturday from 10:00 AM ? 6:00 PM, and a shorter 10:00 AM ? 3:00 PM schedule on Sundays. Also discussed was how the company's experienced roof inspectors go about conducting a roof inspection. This is especially important when they are doing a new roof estimate. That's because these are big jobs that take some careful planning for them to come out right, so the finished work keeps a home's roof watertight and good-looking for many years to come.

Once they are up on a roof, the company representative says that their inspector will do much more than just take a quick look around. That includes taking any roof measurements that are necessary to estimate the job and looking for structural and other problems that need attention during the project. Possible leak and venting issues will also be noted during the inspection. He added that their detailed roof inspections also lead to more accurate estimates from the company. This helps to keep their customers from getting a final bill that is significantly higher than the original estimate for the work. Laicor also mentioned how their expanded inspection appointment hours also allow them to have more in-person contact with a customer. That's not only a good way to build up a rapport with the customer, but it also allows them to describe to that customer how the repair they are needing will be done. At that time, if they are doing a new roof inspection, the company inspector will also help a customer decide what type of shingle they want to be laid down or go over with them the other roof covering available choices. Seeing the site where the roofing work will take place also helps Roofers Near Me Margate plan the job better.

The company representative also pointed out that whole roof replacements are definitely their specialty roofing task. Their crews love to take a roof that is having issues and have it once again be leak-free and help make the outside appearance of a home look much better. He added that they are also very good at finding & resolving roof leaks and doing big and small roof repairs. They have also become one of the more popular options in their area for gutter repair and replacement work.
