Syracuse Tree Service Experts Restores the Aesthetic Appeal of an Overgrown Hedge

Syracuse, New York ? Yesterday, Syracuse Tree Service Experts got a chance to show off its landscaping skills when a new homeowner hired the company for a hedge improvement project. The company pruned a hedge surrounding a 2-acre property in less than 3 hours. Collecting the waste generated by the tree maintenance procedure, the company left the landscape looking much better than the Syracuse tree pruning team had found it.

?This property was purchased through an agent while the family was in the UK,? said Williamson, the property owner. ?From the photos the agent sent, the hedge looked great. However, remaining abroad longer than initially planned resulted in the messed-up hedge the team from Syracuse Tree Service Experts found on the landscape. Hiring the tree care company was one of the best decisions. The company has a very knowledgeable team of professionals - they only left the landscape after ensuring everything looked great.?

Syracuse Tree Service Experts CEO noted that for hedges to stay aesthetically appealing, they need tree trimming every 2 to 6 months. Waiting longer will cause the hedges to grow out of shape. If the hedges go for more than 2 years before being pruned, the shrubs may become too overgrown to fix.

?Williamson was lucky that he came 8 months after the last tree trimming procedure,? said the Syracuse Tree Service Experts CEO, ?If he had waited longer, these shrubs would have grown too big to be considered hedges anymore. Since tree pruning wouldn?t have helped fix the overgrown shrubs, Williamson would have been forced to remove the hedge and then invest in its replacement.?

Syracuse Tree Service Experts impressed the homeowner after using its experience to create a new pattern on his hedge. The company created a new shape that made Williamson?s home stand out more.

?When hiring the company?s team of tree cutting professionals in Syracuse,? said Williamson, ?The goal was to get a team that would cut the hedges to size. The company decided to do more than expected. From the look of the results, it seems the company has handled more than a few hedge trimming procedures ? the Syracuse tree pruning team created a pattern that gives the hedge the impression of waves on the ocean. Even though the procedure required more time to complete, the company ended up charging a very affordable fee for it.?

Impressed with the results generated by Syracuse Tree Service Experts, Williamson said that he was planning to hire the team again for his upcoming tree maintenance procedure. The homeowner reported that he will be hiring the Syracuse tree trimming team to improve 12 palm trees and 10 redwoods on his landscape.

?The palm and redwoods are entering their dormant stage next month,? said Williamson, ?Since the best time to prune trees is when they are not growing actively, it looks like I need a budget for the project that Syracuse Tree Service Experts will handle in about 25 days. However, the fact that the company is very affordable means there is no need to worry about breaking the bank account.?

To better understand Syracuse Tree Service Experts after seeing the work they did on Williamson?s landscape, a team of reporters followed up on the company's landscaping history. The reporters discovered that the company has been handling tree maintenance procedures for more than 25 years.

Established as a family business with the sole goal of improving the aesthetic appeal of landscapes through tree trimming, the company has continued to expand its list of tree services. Today, the company is known in Syracuse ? and neighborhoods like Liverpool, Westvale, Minoa, Fairmount, Fayetteville, Sherrill, Baldwinsville, and Melrose Park ? for its ability to handle tree removals, stump removal, emergency tree services, and tree pruning. The company handles these procedures on both commercial and residential properties.
