Los Angeles, California ? For the past one week, Los Angeles Party Bus Company has been performing safety checks on its vehicles. This morning, the company?s CEO received a call informing him that the company's vehicles are in the best shape.

To ensure that its clients are 100% safe on the road, Los Angeles Party Bus Company invests in vehicle safety checks every 3 months. The safety checks analyze all parts of the car, including the condition of the tires, light functionality, brake performance, steering & alignment, seat belt functionality, fluid leaks, and the condition of the windshield. The mechanics performing the safety checks always take note of any of the issues they find on the vehicles. These issues are then forwarded to the company?s CEO with a recommendation to fix them before the affected vehicles go back on the road.

?This year,? said the head of the City?s Safety Checks Department on the phone, ?your company has managed to keep its vehicles in perfect working condition. The tires are new, the windshields are clean, the brakes are working perfectly, you have no fluid leaks, and the steering & alignment are working great. If you keep the vehicles in this condition, I am sure you will continue receiving praises from the customers who use your services.?

Los Angeles Party Bus Company is known for not cutting corners when it comes to maintaining its vehicles. Working with the best mechanics in Los Angeles, the company?s CEO ensures his vehicles are repaired in environment controlled garages.

?When a customer gets in one of our vehicles,? said the company?s CEO, ?we want him/her to know that he/she will arrive at the destination safely. Safety, however, can only be maintained if the vehicles are in perfect working condition ? this is why 25% of the income we get from our transport services goes to vehicle maintenance.?

Los Angeles Party Bus Company notes that it does not keep vehicles on its fleet for more than 2 years. The company CEO noted that his experience with vehicles has shown him that most vehicles start developing serious issues once they hit the 2-year mark. This is why the company always sells its 2-year-old vehicles and replaces them with brand-new vehicles.

"We know that second-hand vehicles would be cheaper," said the company's CEO, "But, we prioritize quality over cost. We always assume that second-hand vehicles are being sold because they have some hidden issues. Therefore, even if a car owner approaches us with a vehicle that has only been on the road for 2 months, we will reject the offer and instead get our vehicle directly from the manufacturer."

The company's CEO noted that having properly maintained vehicles is only part of the equation when it comes to delivering safe services. The company notes that its chauffeurs have years of driving experience.

"It feels good to sit in a vehicle that is driven by a chauffeur with more than a decade of driving experience," said the Los Angeles Party Bus Company CEO. "Before adding a driver to our team of chauffeurs, we ensure that he/she has been driving a car for at least 10 years. Our drivers are always under strict instructions to avoid taking shortcuts while on the road. Shortcuts tend to be one of the easiest ways to get in an accident."

With its properly maintained vehicles and cautious professional drivers, Los Angeles Party Bus Company notes that it can handle all types of transportation needs. Over the years, the company has been handling bachelor/bachelorette parties, corporate travel needs, personal travel services, wedding transportations, proms, and much more.
