

Niagen: Review Examining Live Cell Research's Anti-Aging Supplement Released

October 19, 2015

October 19, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Niagen claims to be a scientifically proven supplement that not only helps slow down the aging process, but also improves cardiovascular and brain health. This has caught the attention of HealthAvenger.com's Stan Stevenson, prompting an investigative review.

Our Niagen review shows that it's a one-per-day capsule that contains Nicotinamide Riboside (NR) that has been proven in laboratory studies to increase NAD+. This is a naturally occurring compound in the body that's essential for cellular metabolism or in other words, how you age, reports Stevenson. This anti aging supplement promotes healthy aging. No matter whether you're male or female, it helps your body age in the right way, which means staying healthier and living the life you want to lead longer.

Taking Niagen on a daily basis can help slow the aging process, restore cellular communication, boost energy levels, fix aches and pains and much more. Some of the best scientists in the world believe that NAD+ is a crucial factor to slow down the aging process. With the supplement boosting the cells from the inside, people no longer have to put up with the aches and pains, which they think they need to. They can simply learn to relish life again instead of trudging on through the days, convinced that just one good night's sleep will make them energetic again.

This anti aging supplement comes with a guarantee that it's made from pure ingredients. In addition, it's completely lactose free, gluten free and suitable for strict vegetarians. In addition to helping the body age in a healthy manner, it also supports healthy cholesterol levels, and therefore good cardiovascular health, says Stevenson. NAD+ in your body is the compound responsible for communication between the nucleus and mitochondria in the cells of your body. Scientific tests are also saying that NAD may well help the brain and help prevent premature aging. It's great to see real research and proof behind such a product, and taking it really can only boost your health.

Niagen is the supplement for those of us who really want to enjoy life to the fullest, for as long as we can. California based nutraceutical company, Live Cell Research that has created this anti aging product focuses on increasing the quality of life. They have their own laboratory as well as every single product they produce being checked out by an independent 3rd party. NAD+ has been exposed by quality media publications (such as Time Magazine) as being truly beneficial for those who take it. In fact, the scientist who brought all these benefits to light has been named by the magazine as one of their "100 most influential people".?

Those wishing to purchase Niagen, or for more information, click here.

To access a comprehensive Niagen review, visit <http://healthavenger.com/niagen-review>.

###

For more information about HealthAvenger.com, contact the company here: HealthAvenger.com Mark Lewis

HealthAvenger.com

Website: <http://healthavenger.com/go/Niagen/>

Powered by PressAdvantage.com