Long Island, NY-- Being charged with a crime in New York can have major consequences. Few are more aware of this better than Long Island medical license defense attorney Jason Bassett. The results of being convicted of a crime could be severe and can in some cases even alter the trajectory of a person's whole life. Mr. Bassett believes that nobody needs to face the criminal justice system on their own and without the advantage of a skilled and experienced criminal defense lawyer.

As a knowledgeable medical license defense attorney, Mr. Bassett knows that the quality of defense that a person gets if they are charged with a crime can make a big difference. Whether the charges get dismissed, reduced, a plea deal is offered, or if they wind up in jail or prison and for what length of time, can typically depend upon the work of their defense lawyer. Whether an individual has actually been charged with burglary, assault, homicide, domestic violence, and even a DWI or DUI, a criminal charge and conviction can haunt them for years to come. This is why it is crucial to have the representation of someone with the knowledge, experience, and determination to fight for the offender's rights.

"While criminal penalties and jail time are hard enough, the way criminal convictions and charges impact the rest of the suspect's life can be similarly terrible," said Mr. Bassett. "A defendant can be punished and serve their time, and yet for the rest of their life, there is a reminder that they are still considered a criminal in the eyes of society. A criminal charge can impact a person's future employment, academic options, professional licenses and accreditations, and involvement in certain government programs. Each time that person gets a job, the prospective company will take a look at them differently. A well-crafted criminal defense is vital to secure my customers not only from the criminal punishment itself but also these other long-lasting collateral effects."

A former district attorney, Mr. Bassett has seen the other side of criminal justice and the way many defendants feel they lack power within the system. He has since turned his sights to criminal defense in order to help level the playing field and safeguard the rights of those who have been charged at both the state and federal levels. Both other attorneys and clients continue to provide favorable reviews and testimonials concerning their work together.

Mraz Nicole from Long Island states: "Mr. Bassett has been an outstanding criminal lawyer! He was quick to react to any inquiries we had throughout our procedure and is extremely good at what he does. I highly recommend his services!!"

In the legal system, a defendant has important rights under the law, and it is the criminal defense attorney's job to uphold those rights. With more than 21 years in the criminal justice system, Mr. Bassett has dedicated his practice to safeguarding the rights of his clients in and out of the courtroom.
