New York, New York - November 16, 2021 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

V&A Capital (?V&A?) is pleased to announce that its portfolio company, Federal Steel Supply, (?FSS?) has acquired Process Piping Materials (?PPM? or the ?Company?) from its original founders, who will remain actively involved in the business.

Based in Lafayette, LA with distribution facilities in Hobbs, NM and George West, TX, PPM is a leading value-added distributor of industrial pipe, fittings, valves and flanges.

"Process Piping Materials is a great company with a strong reputation for providing its customers with value-added products and services. We are excited about this complementary add-on which helps expand FSS? footprint, product offering and customer base. Furthermore, the combined companies will be able to leverage each other?s technical knowledge while taking advantage of cross-selling and consolidated purchasing opportunities," said Chuck Mills, Managing Director of V&A.

"We are excited to bring PPM into the FSS family," said Scott Harris, CEO of Federal Steel Supply. "The addition of Process Piping Materials further positions FSS as a leading provider of pipe and related products to a broad range of end-markets and geographies. Our combination creates a strong platform from which to expand into other geographic regions where we see opportunities."

"V&A Capital and Federal Steel Supply were great to work with throughout the sale process. Their attention to detail, balanced approach to issues and expertise in manufacturing and distribution businesses were key to selecting them as a partner," said Mike Trahan, former owner and current Vice President and General Manager of PPM.
