Arrowhead Clinic Explains Crucial Steps To Take After A Car Accident in Georgia

November 16, 2021

Peachtree City, Georgia - November 16, 2021 -
Arrowhead Clinic has released a new blog post listing five crucial steps to take after a car accident. Dr. Jeremy Thompson, one of their top chiropractors at their Savannah, Georgia location, is compassionate with accident victims and understands that an accident can leave them with physical, emotional, and financial damages. The top chiropractor suggests victims should seek compensation for their damages if another negligent driver caused the accident.

The most important step after a car accident is to check for injuries and pull over to a safe spot. The blog post suggests keeping track of medical expenses after the accident. The information comes in handy by the insurance company to determine the amount of compensation. Dr. Thompson states, ?Turn off your car and turn your hazard lights on. Now you can check for property damage and call the police.?

The blog post can be read here: https://www.arrowheadclinic.com/category/blog/five-steps-to-take-after-a-car-accident. Accident victims should not ignore police help after minor accidents. Some states require victims to call the police to the scene of the accident if there is property damage or injury. The police report is important in an accident compensation claim and will help the accident attorney to evaluate the victim?s case against the negligent driver.

The Georgia car accident chiropractor explains the importance of an accident report as a crucial piece of evidence in personal injury claims. ?The report will give the officers interpretation of what happened in the accident, document the parties involved, and provide more information the attorneys and insurance adjusters can use.?

The blog post asserts the importance of getting important details from the responding officer with regard to their name, badge number, and report number. With these details, a victim can secure a copy of the report whenever needed.

Avoid small talk, advises the top car accident doctor in Georgia, warning victims against offering opinions of what caused the accident or placing blame on others. Instead, the chiropractor advises victims to gather necessary details from the insurance policy and exchange information with other drivers.

?The less you say at the scene of the accident regarding the crash, the better.?

The importance of exchanging information with the other driver is also listed in the blog post. Dr. Thompson suggests that victims should get the insurance details of the other party and their name, contact information, drivers' license numbers, license plate, and car make and model.

The top chiropractic clinic in Georgia mentions the importance of not making public statements about the accident, saying that such statements might be construed as admitting liability. ?Even if it seems like you were at fault, it's possible that the other driver was negligent in some way. That's why it is best to speak at a minimum and stick to what you know,? says Dr. Thompson.

The blog post suggests documenting the damage done to the vehicles and taking pictures of the damage, including skid marks and malfunctioning stoplights. Getting details from witnesses is also important, states the blog post.

There is an emphasis on visiting a car accident doctor for victims to get treatment and obtain medical records. A medical report is crucial in any accident injury claim. The blog post suggests the need for keeping a record of vehicle damage and repairs and sharing the records with an accident lawyer. Consulting with an experienced personal injury attorney after an automobile accident is important to get the right compensation.

For accident injury treatment, a victim should immediately seek medical care. A chiropractor can help in the non-invasive accident injury care if there are no serious injuries, suggests the blog post, adding that Arrowhead Clinic is equipped with cutting-edge tools to diagnose hidden injuries. Dr. Thompson advises immediate medical assistance for victims to prevent an underlying injury from becoming worse later.

Timely and proper medical evaluation is crucial in filing an insurance claim.

?If you don't see a doctor or wait too long to see a doctor, your insurance company may claim your injuries aren't severe or unrelated to the accident, so they don't have to give you the compensation you deserve,? warns the auto accident chiropractor in Georgia.
