Des Moines Funeral Home Offers New Free Support for Funeral Questions

October 21, 2015

October 21, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Des Moines based Des Moines Funeral Resources announces their new and innovative offering to provide free support to questions and concerns surrounding funerals and cremations in Iowa. Ryan Fredregill, Licensed Funeral Director, explains, "Our innovation is to truly be of service, which we feel shouldn't be innovative but rather a natural way of being. When someone loses a loved one, the death is usually difficult and heartbreaking on many levels. The thought of now having to figure out what is the best funeral service, the costs and having to call family and friends is tremendously overwhelming."

Ryan went on to say that, "Even though some grievors may find the distraction of planning a service helpful, it is still an unwanted task and emotional time for anyone to have to deal with these issues." A study regarding funeral planning showed that 46% of respondents said their family knows their final wishes and only 21% of them had already made funeral plans. So it is highly likely that a grieving person who has just lost a loved one is going to have to figure out all the funeral and disposition decisions on their own.

Des Moines Funeral Resources offers an exclusive "Ask Us Program" that is designed to help family members and loved ones by answering questions, and ultimately helping them to feel more confident about their decisions. The company has observed that because funeral costs and general burial or cremation costs can vary greatly, it is often difficult for someone to know precisely what is needed and what is a fair and reasonable price.

"Handling funeral details is a rare, uncommon occurrence in a person's life and there are lots of questions. We wanted to create an opportunity for people to get help without worrying about being charged for it or whether they were being taken advantage of. Our Exclusive Ask Us Program allows griever to ask questions, discuss their concerns and learn things they didn't even realize they even needed to know, and all for free, with zero obligation," states Ryan Fredregill. He further explained that griever can call, email, or receive text messages to get their answers. The program also offers a free, no obligation 30 minute one-on-one phone conversation with one of the their highly trained experts.

If, after the consultation, clients would like assistance in taking care of their loved ones' funeral services, the funeral home also offers three "Done For You" packages with funeral services ranging from basic needs to help with everything getting done such as calling people, ordering flowers, getting prices, and more, with their personal funeral assistant. Ryan Fredregill declares, "We invite anyone interested to contact us today to learn more about our Ask Us Program."
