London, UK ? When it comes to a wedding, most agree that everything needs to be perfect starting with the motif, on to the flowers, the dress, and of course the food. Alix Caiger of Caiger & Company Catering (www.caigerandcocatering.co.uk) has just published a new blog post discussing this entitled 'Catering Companies in London Offer Bespoke Wedding Reception Services'.

The article reviews Jade Pepperel's article in Wedding Ideas Magazine which offers some insights on how one can effectively manage the budget for a wedding reception.

?A buffet has a number of advantages, ? stated Alix Caiger, ?it will work out as being cheaper than a sit-down dinner. You can offer a variety of dishes ? meat, fish and vegetarian so you can be confident that you're catering for all tastes and preferences. A buffet also makes it easier to cater for people with food allergies.?

The article describes how 'regardless of the theme and style of a reception, it is important to find a catering service who can give the wedding couple exactly what they require. Look to London caterers who specialise in bespoke catering and have an extensive menu. They should be able to create a menu specifically for anyone's special day'.

What the article points out is that 'if a couple doesn't have a plan yet, they need not stress themselves out by shouldering the task of reception planning all by themselves. Rather, they should enlist the help of the catering service who should be able to provide them with some creative ideas'.

As a bespoke catering company, Caiger and Company take pride on having a wide range of experience in the bespoke catering industry, having worked with large event companies, corporate clients, as private chef work and even as film location catering.
