

Craig Roofing Announces Storm Damage Roof Repair Services

December 07, 2021

December 07, 2021 -
Craig Roofing, a roofing company in Akron Ohio, is announcing their roof repair and insurance claim services for customers experiencing storm damage. The company services various types of storm damage in Northeast Ohio, including damage from snow, hail, wind, and water. The company is experienced not just in repairing roof damage, but in working with insurance companies to ensure customers pay as little out of pocket as possible to repair their roof that has been damaged by a storm or other inclement weather.

When a customer is dealing with a storm damaged roof, Craig Roofing can help through the entire process, from an initial inspection to filing claims repairing the roof. The first step is to schedule an inspection with Craig Roofing. Their GAF certified roofers will come to the property and inspect the damage, as well as tarp covering damaged areas of the house to prevent further damage, especially from water or leaks. Once the company has inspected the damage, they will assist homeowners in opening an insurance claim, and scheduling an insurance inspection. They?ll meet the insurance company?s inspector at the property to help represent the homeowner while insurance is inspecting, and then they handle negotiations with the insurance company to maximize coverage for the homeowner. In the case that a roof needs to be entirely replaced after a storm, Craig Roofing will install a roof rated for high winds to prevent future issues with storm damage.

When a homeowner needs storm damage roof repair, they can trust that Craig Roofing will provide master workmanship, and all of their certified professional, experienced installers will treat each home with the care and attention to detail they would use installing a roof on their own home. On the company website, Craig Roofing owner Jeff Craig is quoted as saying ?Being a resident of Akron, OH, I understand the burden storm damage can cause to homeowners. I believe that every homeowner deserves access to a reputable contractor and insurance expert, especially when they need it the most. I set the bar high for everyone on the Craig Roofing team and instill the importance of serving the customer with respect and accountability. I appreciate every customer and referral and promise to give you nothing but the best service and quality.? Craig Roofing also assigns a single project manager to each home they?re working on, to keep in touch with the homeowner and assist them with their roofing needs every step of the way.

After a roof damaging storm, homeowners might find themselves wondering if their insurance will cover repairs, or how to open a claim with their insurance company. Homeowner?s insurance covers some kinds of damage but not others. Typically, sudden, natural events, like storms, are covered, so damage from storms, wind, hail, fires, or even fallen trees, can be covered by homeowner?s insurance. If something like this happens, the homeowner may have to go through the roof insurance claims process, which can be intimidating. Most roofing contractors also have experience with insurance claims and can assist homeowners with the entire claims process, from beginning to end. This means that finding the right roof contractor can be a good first step to filing an insurance claim for roof repair. Researching a few contractors can be helpful, and it is a good idea to look at not just their website, but also any Google reviews, GAF Certifications, the Better Business Bureau, and their proof of insurance, to be sure they are a reputable contractor who will do a good job not just repairing a roof but also working through the roof insurance claim process. Roofing contractors will also provide an estimate for damage repair that homeowners can share with their insurance provider to get more thorough coverage from the insurance plan.

Craig Roofing serves an area around Akron, Ohio and is dedicated to making the home improvement process stress free and affordable, regardless of their customers roofing needs. Storm damage roof repair is just one of many helpful services the professional roofers at Craig Roofing provide.
