December 21, 2021 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Security advisor Security Forward launched its new website to provide security industry insights and guides so that readers can be better informed on their physical and cybersecurity. The site disseminates essential security information for organizations, high net-worth individuals, entrepreneurs, and chief stakeholders regarding security.

Keeping homes safe is becoming more important than ever because of the rising cases of burglaries and home invasions. No one can assume unwanted intruders and burglars have ceased their unlawful activities at any time. So, to safeguard the home and ensure the security of the people residing in them, it is imperative to understand all the elements of home security and security systems commonly used in residential properties.

Security Forward's website covers topics on home and family safety, personal and physical security, providing easily accessible information aimed at creating security awareness. Readers interested in learning more about home security can visit their page; <https://www.securityforward.com/home-security/>. The site is developed and run by a team of tech experts and industry professionals.

Physical security is no longer the only concern for individuals and enterprises; with the advancement of the digital world, data security is increasingly at risk. The number of data breaches skyrocketed in 2020 with over a thousand cases, according to Statista. Whereas, over 155 million individuals were affected by data exposures due to less-than-adequate information security. Cybersecurity has become an instrumental part of business and personal security management, guarding information on the worldwide web. Security Forward's website focuses on helping business owners, organizations, and high net-worth individuals explore options and find the best security solutions for themselves.

"If you're searching for security services, information or equipment, you must have come across thousands of online offers. That's exactly why we launched this site- there are only a few reliable online platforms that showcase accurate and factual security information," said Editorial Director Desiree Macy, who believes businesses and individuals requiring security services deserve to know the actual functionalities and advantages of using security gadgets and services.

The services provided on Security Forward's new website include information on security services and reviews of security equipment. Furthermore, the site's resources contain information regarding different types of smart home security services and gadgets, comparisons, and expert advice on the security measures one needs. For learning more about smart home security, readers can visit their page; <https://www.securityforward.com/home-security/smart-home/>.

"We make sure to test out the gadgets and services before we review them so we can give our readers a transparent analysis and deliver sound advice," said Editor-in-Chief Dale Early, who ensures all the facts on the site are cross-checked.

One of the site's more popular services is proving to be their enterprise security resources which feature news, trends, and detailed information on VIP security, personal security, and access controls. These resources aim at helping businesses and high net-worth individuals pick the right tools and services for their security needs.

The site also features a collection of security industry news, emerging technologies and new trends in private security, security guards, security cameras/CCTV and risk management, catering to security executives, professionals, and the security industry.

Business owners and individuals interested in finding the right security services and equipment that match their requirements can get in touch with Security Forward.
