January 13, 2022 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Santa Ana, CA based Elixicure Natural Pain Relief is pleased to announce that they have partnered with Bliss Drive. The natural pain relief product supplier and digital marketing agency, respectively, have partnered to help Elixicure reach a broader audience. In turn, both parties hope that this will put Elixicure's products in the hands of more people who are looking for a way to manage their pain as holistically as possible.

As their name suggests, Elixicure utilizes natural remedies in all of their products. Their mission is to honor nature and improve the quality of people's lives with effective and all-natural products. As with any product, however, the problem lies in bringing these remedies to the attention of people who stand to benefit from their use. The company's search for a solution brought them in touch with Bliss Drive, whose team saw an excellent opportunity in helping Elixicure reach their target audience. In addition to helping Elixicure grow as a company, Bliss Drive's efforts will mean more people will now have a better idea of all the pain-relief alternatives at their disposal.

"Elixicure began out of a desire to create a natural pain relief product that could significantly improve people's lives," says Elixicure. "As huge proponents of plant-based lifestyles, our number one priority is to provide our customers with high-quality, organic pain relief products. Elixicure was formed to solve society's most pressing health issues by combining the power of medicinal plants with cutting-edge science to create game-changing solutions that boost your body's natural ability to repair itself. As a result, there's a new standard for natural pain relief as well as a highly effective alternative for addressing your health demands ? and it is completely natural, non-habit forming and safe to use every day.? Chronic pain is more common than most people assume. Many feel pain when performing normal, everyday tasks, and the vast majority of these individuals are unfortunately unaware of the many pain relief options available to them. According to the CDC, up to 40% of all Americans suffer from chronic pain, which makes it one of the most common reasons why a person might seek medical help. Notably, people in this position tend to put off looking for effective treatment for pain until they have exhausted all their other options (like freezing or heating the affected area or taking various over the counter medicines), which may not always be very effective.

By offering effective, safe and natural pain relief products, Elixicure is looking to change the way their community views pain management and treatment. The general public has become more and more reliant on prescription medication over the years, including pain medication. This has led to the creation of a drug abuse and addiction problem across the country when people could have been using natural medications to deal with their chronic pain instead. With natural remedies, they do not have to worry about addiction and side effects ? but they can still be sure to find the relief they seek.

Elixicure can, and has helped many people manage their pain more effectively. They state, ?Natural pain relief creams from Elixicure can assist you in rediscovering the joy of movement. Elixicure herbal remedies help in relieving pain caused by arthritis, so you can seize the day in your way. This is true whether your day involves getting some exercise, completing chores or trying your hand at a new cuisine. For example, muscle tension makes it difficult to get out of bed in the morning. Fortunately, Elixicure's first comprehensive pain remedy makes waking up less uncomfortable. Elixicure is a great way to start the day. As an alternative to pills, it helps you get through your day by delivering relief to the cause of your pain. Our customers are thrilled to take advantage of effective arthritis pain relief with a track record of safety.?

Elixicure is so confident in the quality and effectiveness of their products that they offer a 100% guarantee. They manufacture and produce some of the best natural pain relief products available at any price point, and they assure their customers that all their remedies are safe and effective. Every sale is backed with a 30 day money-back guarantee, and customers can simply return products if necessary.
