Savage, Maryland - January 05, 2022 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

ROI Construction, a roofing contractor from Maryland, is offering residential and commercial roofing services in Chevy Chase and nearby areas. The company's residential roofing services in Chevy Chase include roof repair, roof replacement, roof maintenance, asphalt shingle roofing, standing seam metal roofing, slate roofing, and flat roofing.

Homeowners in Maryland have to contend with a wide range of natural factors that have the potential to wreak havoc on the health of a home's roof. Common complaints include occasional rainfall, strong winds, the glaring sun during the summers, and the bombardment of ice in the form of snow or hail during the winter. Apart from these weather events, there is also the prospect of stray limbs from nearby trees falling on the roof along with the attack of pests and small animals that might try to burrow into the home's solitary areas such as the attic. Each of these factors if not spotted and handled in time can lead to the damaging of the roofing materials that can slowly spread and corrode significant portions of the home's primary defense mechanism against the elements.

ROI Construction provides all the roof maintenance and repair services that a homeowner or property owner might possibly need to keep their roof in optimum health. Its team of Certified Roofing Experts can diagnose any and all roofing problems and come up with solutions that fit the needs and the budget of the client. They can quickly resolve common roofing complaints such as leaks, wind damage, damaged flashing, chimney cap or pan issues, improper ventilation leading to an overheated attic, damaged or expired pipe boots, nail pops, broken shingles, and more. The company's experts can also help a client determine whether they should go for a one-time roof repair or undertake a complete replacement depending on the severity of the problem.

When the homeowner is ready to ensure that their roof never has to go through emergency repairs again, the company can even set up regular roof maintenance to periodically assess the integrity of the roof and make repairs if they are needed. The company's roof maintenance service is composed of a number of tasks, including replacing rubber boots, sealing any visible nail pops/exposed nails, sealing roof vents, skylight inspections, reattaching loose shingles, or gutters, flashing inspection, and caulking.

ROI Construction is a family-owned and operated, second-generation roofing business that has operations all over Maryland including regions such as Bethesda, Chevy Chase, Clarksville, Ellicott City, Fulton, Northwest DC, and Silver Spring. The company is fully licensed and insured and has been providing its services to local communities in Maryland for over 25 years. All of the company's repairs carry a 1-year warranty on the work completed (except for nail pops).

Owner and operator Dominic DiPietro talks about the company's services by saying, "We place all of our primary focus on our craftsmanship and professionalism to ensure that we do a great job on every site that we visit while delivering top-notch service with a smile.
