As the world moves to a whole new paradigm of doing business, interacting with friends and family, and seeking leisure that is all built upon the vast and non-tangible ether that is the internet, it can be difficult to adapt to this all-digital future. Even if one gets past the steep learning curve to operate in this new world, the cornerstone assets of which mostly reside in the cloud, there is also the specter of malicious actors constantly looking to steal one's valuable financial resources, digital assets, and meticulously built up online personas. Every year it seems like hackers are coming up with new and hostile ways of siphoning off money from people's bank accounts, denying them access to their private and intimate files that hold sentimental value such as photos or videos, or locking them out of their social media accounts. It is a scary time to be alive and even one small seemingly innocuous slip-up can have disastrous and far-reaching consequences. Readers who want to get a headstart on protecting their computer from viruses and malware can browse through the products available for sale on Antivirus Contact Support's website by heading over to the link: <https://www.antiviruscontactsupport.com/>.

In 2021, The Identity Theft Research Center (ITRC) reported an increase of 17% in the number of recorded data breaches compared to 2020. According to a report published in October 2021 by the Department of the Treasury, almost $600 million were paid out to hackers who held critical files and computers hostage at large institutions around the country. Even individuals are not spared as many readers will undoubtedly remember the havoc caused by the WannaCry ransomware attack which infected 200 thousand computers across 150 countries over 4 days in May 2017. More major corporations that experienced data breaches in 2021 include Microsoft Exchange, Facebook, Colonial Pipeline, Volkswagen Audi, T-Mobile, Coinbase, and Robinhood, just to name a few.

A spokesperson for Antivirus Contact Support talks about the need for securing one's digital life by saying, "Cybersecurity is no longer a concern reserved for the big tech companies, financial institutions, and governments that run the world. Hackers are not just the domain of sci-fi movies anymore. The age of the internet is upon us and the threat is here and now. Your computer is a goldmine for those with the intent to steal from you. They will find a way to get into your system and render your personal photos and files encrypted and inaccessible. It can be a mentally taxing experience to get your treasured memories back. Even worse, if they happen to get access to bank account details and social media passwords, it will open up even more ways for them to completely ruin your life. Even if you don't think you have anything of significant value on your computer, ransomware attacks can make you lose time and energy to get the use of your hardware back. Don't be complacent in making sure your computer is secure. Ensure that you are running dependable and updated antivirus software to protect your machine from being infiltrated. You can find a wide range of the most well-regarded and high-rated security software for sale at heavily discounted prices on our website, Antivirus Contact Support.
