November 04, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

3rd Rock Products, a nootropic supplement company based out of Laguna Beach, CA, has found an ingredient list which may increase brain function without the crash. The company recently released a natural and vegetarian based Brain Supplement, which provides consumers with 60 capsules to take as needed. The active ingredients in this mix is a combination of L-theanine and caffeine, which 3rd Rock Products believes to be more effective than caffeine products alone.

In the past, alertness and clarity were thought to be enhanced by caffeinated beverages alone. Coffee and energy drinks have begun building a large market on this concept, but with the addition of L-Theanine, 3rd Rock Products has been able to achieve Natural brain supplements which avoids the late morning crash, and instead, tapers off naturally.

Currently the Brain Function Supplements sell through the company's online retail channel for the sale price of $19.97, and consumers who have tried the product rank it with a majority of five star reviews. One such satisfied customer writes: "It's easier for me to take a capsule than drink three cups of coffee or eight cups of tea or buy an energy shot every day. Besides, the coffee and energy shots wouldn't have the L-Theanine. It's the combination and the right dose that makes this work and it works beautifully. Thirty minutes after taking it, it kicked in and I felt mentally sharper, more alert and could think clearer. It gave me the energy to plow through my day without any jitters. I am thrilled that I found this product."

One of the main selling points which many reviewing customers seem to touch on are the L-Theanine benefits, which help to reduce the fatigue associated with caffeine crashes. This is something which 3rd Rock Products has made clear is a design characteristic which was purposefully implemented. In fact, the company stands behind the Nootropics formula with such integrity that they offer all consumers a 100% money back guarantee for any individual who is not completely satisfied with their experience.
