California based natural supplement company, 3rd Rock Products, has shed some light on what to take for energy when individuals seek a boost in concentration and clarity, but do not want the crash after the effect has worn off. The company is recognized for the pills known as Steady Focus, which offer a combination of L-Theanine and Caffeine in such a dosage that the pair work effectively together.

Many caffeinated products on the market give an immediate rush, which is generally followed a few hours later by fatigue and a feeling of crashing. 3rd Rock Products has reported that their supplement offers this same energy and focus with no sleepy side effects. Instead, the L-Theanine works to balance out the caffeine so that the two work together smoothly. The company explains: "The right dose is everything. In developing products we focus on ingredients that have human clinical trials behind them. Trials that outline the effective dose needed to deliver the desired outcome. If you adhere to the prescribed dosage, you may be able to expect Steady Focus to do what it promises, give you alertness, energy, focus and clarity. In clinical studies, a combination of L-Theanine with Caffeine (200mg each) is noted to be synergistic in promoting cognition and attention."

This product can be utilized in a number of settings, including work, university, or around the house. With all-natural and vegetarian ingredients, the pills are suitable for anybody considered of age to take them. One of the features that 3rd Rock Products believes sets Steady Focus apart from other energizers is that there are no pharmaceutical ingredients. The company has made it clear that they have worked hard to provide a product which offers natural alertness to their customers.

Recent reviews show that when it comes to determining what to take for energy, Steady Focus customers have positive things to say about the supplement. The company invites all customers, new and current to leave their own feedback and continue the growth and evolution of the company and its products. They stand behind their product and the satisfaction of consumers with a 100% money back guarantee on any product that does not meet the expectations of a shopper.
