

Hoosier Auto Repair In New Castle Indiana Launches New Website

January 18, 2022

Traverse City, Michigan - January 18, 2022 -

Hoosier Auto Repair, a New Castle Indiana based auto repair specialist, recently launched a new website. The new site will allow customers to get in touch with Hoosier Auto repair, learn about the company's services and more. Customers will experience the same high standard of customer service and mechanical expertise they have come to expect from Hoosier Auto Repair, and the company asserts that the new website makes information on their auto repair services as accessible as the old one.

Justin Lowhorn, the owner of Hoosier Auto repair, was surprised to find his website down and his web person unreachable in November of 2021. He then decided to reach out to business contacts to find out how he could get a new website up and running as soon as possible. Through a mutual contact at Kennectd, Justin Lowhorn was put in touch with Stephen Twomey at MasterMind.

With the help of his skilled design team, Twomey created a new website for Hoosier Auto Repair. Approaching this as an opportunity to refresh the website's appearance and functionality, the team created a platform that better represents what Lowhorn and his company stand for. Lowhorn is the sole owner of the new URL as well, meaning there will not be a repeat incident where he loses access. The new website is cleaner and easier to use, and Lowhorn advises business owners to own the domain in their own registrar account and to never let someone else register their business URL.
