?It's cold in Minneapolis and St. Paul this time of year,? states The Key Guys, ?with temperatures and wind chills at -30 degrees F. You do not want to find yourself stranded with the keys locked inside your car. Whether warm or cold out, rely on The Key Guys to get you back in the car and on the road 24/7, 365 days a year. They can also fix that key fob that is not working and replace or make and program a new car key for virtually any make or model car.? Briefly put, the company?s services and expertise is so comprehensive that customers can expect their key-related troubles to be rectified in a short period with minimal hassle. As an example, the company adds that their technicians are even able to deal with keys that broke off in the door or ignition.

There are many advantages to using The Key Guys? and their mobile van. For one, the company is proud of the fact that their services are more often than not more affordable, which is a crucial concern in these trying times. No one wants to be stuck without their car keys in what may be their only reliable mode of transportation (especially in the cold), but even fewer may be happy about spending a lot of money unnecessarily.

The company shares that many of their customers have worked with other providers prior to discovering The Key Guys, such as the original dealership they purchased their vehicle from, only to be charged excessively and have to wait while their key is fixed or replaced. Furthermore, such providers are extremely unlikely to offer their own mobile service, instead requiring the customer to pay a tow truck to first transport their vehicle to a designated location. With The Key Guys, none of this is an issue anymore. Once called, their van will arrive with all the tools they need. Learn more here: Locked Out Of Car.

Ryan Hartung alludes to this in their 5-Star Google review, explaining that the standard of service has been so consistently high over numerous calls that they no longer prefer to work with any other locksmith service. The review says, ?Brian is the bomb and The Key Guys are the only ones I can rely on to do the job right with no issues. I have known and had Brian do work for me for over fifteen years, his knowledge is unbelievable and experience says it all, there is no one else I would even consider to do any locksmith work. Thanks, Brian.?

The Key Guys team understands that customer service is the backbone of every interaction they have with their community. When a customer calls for help, it is usually during a stressful time since it is likely their key issues occurred unexpectedly, so the company endeavors to make the whole experience as hassle-free as possible. In addition to offering an affordable service, for instance, they are able to replace or repair keys quite quickly. Customers have even contacted the company from the side of the road for immediate assistance, following which they were still able to continue on their way and make their appointments in good time. However, The Key Guys emphasizes that there is almost no location they cannot visit. Repairs can be done at the customer?s home, workplace and more.
