Bug Out Bill wants to provide the best possible online resource for such products that that can help them survive wherever they are. In their latest review articles, the online resource takes a look at the Energizer Spotlight and what can be considered as the best value among the top 10 handheld spotlights that are available on the market. In a previous press release, it was reported about previous survival gear that Bug Out Bill had reviewed. This PR can be accessed at https://www.pressadvantage.com/story/48680-survival-gear-reviewed-by-outdoorsman-on-bug-out-bill.

Handheld spotlights have the distinct advantage of being lightweight, compact and easy to hold with just one hand. In one of their latest articles, they describe how they tested the leading 10 handheld spotlights that are available on the market and why they gave the Avid Power Handheld Spotlight the Best Value award. In evaluating the handheld spotlights, they took a look at value for money, brightness, features, and durability and The Avid Power Handheld got an overall score of 96. The Avid Power Handheld Spotlight measures 6 x 6 x 3 inches and has a weight of 12.6 ounces. It has a 900 lumens brightness rating and has a lighting distance of up to 500 yards. The battery type is lithium-ion.

Based on their review of the particular handheld spotlight, it is suitable as a cost-effective all-around spotlight that can utilized both for outside and inside the home. Pros for the Avid Power Handheld Spotlight are: pivoting head for easily pointing it in any direction; great build, durability, quality, and reliability; bright spotlight with three lighting modes; long lasting battery life; budget-friendly price; safe to use even underwater up to three feet deep. Cons are: non-replaceable lithium-Ion rechargeable battery; quite long charging time; a few reports about short battery lifespan.
