January 19, 2022 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

MoldStar Remediation, owned and operated by Jeremy Shelton, has recently announced that the company has opened a warehouse and location in Southwest Atlanta. Owned and operated by Jeremy Shelton, the company has provided all of metro Atlanta with top rated water damage restoration, mold removal, and biohazard services since 2009. Shelton and his team bring more than a decade of indoor air quality and mold experience to Georgia homeowners dealing with mold toxicity.

MoldStar Remediation has become one of the most trusted remediation firms in Georgia, MoldStar and Mr. Shelton separate themselves from their competitors in a variety of ways. Beyond the company's extensive experience, Mr. Shelton himself holds certifications in Water Damage Restoration and Applied Microbial Remediation through IICRC, which is the indoor air-quality industry's most respected accreditation body. Mr. Shelton brings knowledge and experience that only a few mold experts in Georgia can match.

Customers and potential clients often ponder the importance of these industry specific certifications. The state of Georgia requires no formal training or licensing for mold remediation contractors, meaning there are a number of under qualified contractors working within Georgia. Shelton's expertise and certifications help him and the MoldStar team attack mold problems in a number of ways, helping Atlanta homeowners save both time and money.

Homeowners interested in hiring MoldStar should first receive a remediation protocol from a certified microbial consultant. Once the remediation protocol has been received, MoldStar can assist homeowners and help build the most cost effective, yet comprehensive solution for addressing their mold problem.

Because MoldStar uses the most current techniques, chemicals, and practices, MoldStar customers typically save between 25-50%, while receiving a better, more comprehensive service.
