Orange, California - February 10, 2022 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Napolin Accident Injury Lawyer Orange County, a law firm based in Orange, CA, has explained the importance of hiring an Orange County personal injury lawyer after getting involved in an accident. First of all, victims of an accident, whether it is as simple as a parking lot fender bender or more serious situations such as a slip and fall in a grocery store, tend to feel stressed, confused, and overwhelmed right after the incident. This is one important reason why it is a good idea to consult with a knowledgeable and experienced personal injury lawyer. The lawyer can provide the necessary guidance for the victim in preparing the requirements in making a claim and obtaining the settlement that they deserve.

Alexander D. Napolin, founder of Napolin Accident Injury Lawyer Orange County, says, "After an accident it is understandable that victims may be dealing with feelings of anger, frustration, sadness, stress and in most cases, lots of mental and physical pain as well. This can lead people to making rash decisions like settling for a quick payout from an insurance company instead of pursuing the maximum possible payout. With the help of a personal injury lawyer, clients can rest easy knowing they will be steered in the right direction when it comes time to accept a settlement offer."

The first thing to do is determine if there is a need to consult with a car accident lawyer Orange California residents can rely on. If there is an injury, it's the first indication that it may be necessary to get the help of a lawyer. It is important to note that somebody has to be responsible for the bodily injury that the victim has suffered. At Napolin Accident Injury Lawyer Orange County, a free initial consultation will be provided to discuss the circumstances of the incident. If the firm can represent the victim after learning about the facts of the case, they will provide the client with the necessary paperwork to complete the hiring process.

Napolin Accident Injury Lawyer Orange County will work on a contingency fee basis, which means the client will pay a percentage of the settlement amount as attorney fees. Thus, the lawyer will only receive compensation after the successful settlement of the case. The firm offers a No Fee Promise, which is a true contingency fee where the client doesn't have to pay the lawyer anything up front, and will only pay after the case has been successfully concluded.

After the client completes the paperwork, the lawyer will sign off on the final document and the lawyer takes over all communication between the client and the insurance adjuster. This takes a lot of burden away from the accident victim who may then concentrate on getting better.

With their broad experience in the legal process, personal injury lawyers will be able to advise clients on whether or not to pursue a particular personal injury claim. For instance, if the likelihood of winning the claim is very small, the lawyer can help the victim avoid wasting time and money to fight a losing battle.
