Bronx personal injury lawyer Samantha Kucher explains in a recently released article <https://www.rrklawgroup.com/bronx-personal-injury-attorney/> discussing how personal injury lawyers can help victims of car and other types of accidents. The lawyer mentions that when someone is injured because of someone else's carelessness, the victim may be able to receive a benefit for their injuries.

According to the Bronx personal injury lawyer, "Thousands of people are injured or killed each year in accidents in the Bronx and around New York City. Victims of these accidents come away with extensive medical costs, lost time from work, and often life-challenging consequences. When negligence is involved, the law says that the negligent party can be held liable for the costs and damages suffered by the injured victim."

The attorney also says that sometimes accident victims are often left feeling overwhelmed when navigating insurance claims or compensations. Some insurance companies often offer the smallest settlement possible.

In addition, the lawyer adds that there are about 15,000 car accidents in the city of New York every month. Over two thousand of those accidents happen in the Bronx. A car accident can also leave the victim with injuries like whiplash, back and neck injuries, lacerations, traumatic brain injuries, and even death, according to the personal injury lawyer.

The attorney also says, "Many companies in New York City rely on commercial trucks to provide goods and services throughout the city. And while the trucking industry is one of the most heavily regulated in the country and truck drivers are required to go through extensive training, truck accidents happen far too frequently, often leaving devastating injuries in their wake."

Aside from the aforementioned, attorney Samantha Kucher explains that a personal injury lawyer can also help victims of construction site accidents. She adds that in 2018, Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) reported that 21.1 percent of worker fatalities in the country were in the construction industry.

Furthermore, the lawyer says that New York has some of the strongest laws regarding construction site safety. However, about 66 percent of construction job sites in New York still have some form of safety violation. This can be considered negligence and a victim may be able to seek compensation for their injuries.

Lastly, the personal injury lawyer adds that it's very important for someone who was a victim of an accident caused by someone's negligence to seek the help of an experienced attorney. A skilled personal injury attorney may be able to help the victim file a claim and receive the compensation they deserve.
