Preparing and sharing food has always been a cornerstone of family life. With traditions passed from generation to generation, it allowed families to stay connected through time. Cestari products can help families stay connected with loved ones by providing high quality kitchen tools that streamline both food prep and clean up, leaving more time to enjoy meals with friends and family. The company was founded in 2014 with the mission of making great food easier to cook at home so that families could prepare food together, enjoy meals together and create their own traditions. Cestari products include a blend of traditional tools and modern innovations which help streamline the cooking process.

MacDowell is proud to say that she uses all of Cestari's products in her own kitchen, and her confidence in their quality has enabled the company to ensure that all of their products come with a Lifetime Replacement Guarantee.
