Calgary has by-laws and regulations that ensure that all cannabis consumed by its residents is perfectly safe and ethically sourced. The dispensary makes it a point to abide by the rules regarding cannabis distribution in Calgary. In order to start a cannabis store in Calgary, businesses must obtain a retail cannabis license from the Alberta Gaming and Liquor Commission. Business owners are also required to obtain all AGLC and city permits and licenses prior to operating cannabis. Further, cannabis that is offered for sale must be sourced from a federally approved and licensed cannabis facility. Dank does everything they can to ensure that they remain within the bounds of the law, and the dispensary holds every necessary license in addition to making sure they only source their cannabis from trusted sources.

Dank Cannabis is the top cannabis supplier in the area, and one can always be sure to get the best cannabis in Calgary here. They offer weed delivery in Ogden and Dover and are looking to expand their services in the future.
