

CutePuppets.com Designs Finger Puppets To Educate Children With Toy Story Telling

November 09, 2015

November 09, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

CutePuppets.com, a company based on the fundamentals that children learn better with visual aids and motivation, has brought stories to life through the use of specially designed finger puppets. The company has stated that the puppets are great for educational purposes and that they help teachers and other educational leaders to better implement lessons taught through stories.

Another aspect of the puppets, which CutePuppets.com has reinforced, is the ability that these toys have to change the children who play with them. The company believes that a toy can make a big difference, not only during story time but during other learning formats as well. They explain: "Puppets primitive or fancy can come from most every culture in the world. Many stories can be told and recalled throughout history. As a teacher I remember a student that all the 6th grade students were afraid of. One day his teacher brought a puppet to class as a kind of class mascot. This boy who came from a broken home and living a difficult lifestyle especially for a child completely changed. This seemingly hardened child was drawn to this puppet and he enjoyed playing quietly in the class room when he completed his work as a motivational reward. He started finishing his work faster so he could play with the puppet and show others how to use the puppet. This puppet changed this boy outwardly and he was friendly, not scary, and he started to enjoy and excel in school."

The handmade puppets are sold by CutePuppets.com in packages of 10, each with intricately designed animals to play with. Currently the product is sold through the company's website. These puppets are created in the mountain villages of Peru as a long-lived custom of the rural communities. The company explains that these beautiful knitted finger puppets have traveled all this way to play with children who are seeking that little something extra in school, or even at home, for a combination of learning and play.

For more information on the individual puppets available, and CutePuppets.com, the company invites new and current consumers to visit them online.

###

For more information about cutepuppets.com, contact the company here: cutepuppets.com Michael

Eastman9092394876michael@cutepuppets.com12403 Central Ave Suite #452

cutepuppets.com

As a former educator and father I saw the joy in the eyes of young and old alike. Puppets are a grea way to connect as tell stories which can help to create lifelong bonds.

Website: <http://cutepuppets.com>

Email: michael@cutepuppets.com

Phone: 9092394876

Powered by PressAdvantage.com