February 18, 2022 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Gun laws and gun safety information resource website Gun Lawsuits has announced that it is introducing outdoor and recreation gear to its vast directory of products. Readers can browse the new outdoor products that the company is promoting by heading over to the link: <https://gunlawsuits.org/archive/outdoor-recreation/>.

According to the Bureau of Economic Analysis, in 2021, the economic output of the outdoor recreation industry was around $689 billion, dwarfing revenue from other industries such as mining, farming, and chemical manufacturing. Hunting, on its own, has an economic impact of over $100 billion. The outdoor recreation industry hires over 4.3 million people around the country or 3 percent of the entire country's workforce. The industry also constitutes 1.8 percent of the total US GDP. It suffered a setback in 2020 as public lands and private businesses were closed to the public, leading people to suspend their travel plans for the foreseeable future. The situation changed towards the end of 2021 with a renewed interest in the populace to resume their wanderlust and sample the adventurous and fulfilling experiences that the country's natural landscape has to offer.

GLS Lawsuits, a website known for its exhaustive and accurate information about gun laws in every state in the country, is taking this opportunity to give those who want to head back into nature, a chance to browse through and pick the best outdoor gear for their upcoming trips. The company has launched two new sections on its website which list products that are picked to meet the requirements of even the most rugged outdoorsmen who need the highest quality items to make most of their time spent in difficult conditions. For example, the website's selection of camping gear includes items such as tents, sleeping bags, chairs, hammocks, batteries, boots, heaters, coolers, water bottles, sunglasses, cots, air mattresses, grills stoves, fuel, cookware, lanterns, and more. Readers can browse the entire list of the company's selected camping products by heading over to the link: <https://gunlawsuits.org/archive/camping/>.

A spokesperson for the website talks about the new development by saying, "Almost all of the country's outdoor enthusiasts were sequestered at home during 2020 and most of 2021 due to the worldwide coronavirus pandemic. They were cooped up at home pining for the liberating release of the outdoors but weren't able to have that experience due to the lull in travel and recreation brought on by stay-at-home orders and social distancing measures. Now that things have gotten more or less back to normal as most of the country is completely vaccinated, it is the perfect opportunity to reclaim the lost time that you might have missed out on. A lot of our audience use their legal firearms for hunting or practicing their skills in outdoor ranges and environments. They partake in activities such as camping to enjoy the thrill of the hunt on a weekend getaway far away from the maddening crowd of the cities and suburbs. Those that have an active outdoor life and enjoy taking their firearms with them will definitely appreciate the new listings that we have incorporated into our website. They are the choicest outdoor recreation products that will elevate your camping experience to the next level. So the next time you are planning an excursion into nature's warm embrace, remember to browse our store's new sections to find your next gear and gadgets."

Gun Lawsuits contains directories on topics such as gun laws, gun clubs, gun ranges, gun shows, gunsmiths, gun stores, gun training, and hunting. The company's listings of gun gear include items such as gun bags, gun belts, gun cases, gun holsters, shooting gloves, and shooting targets. The company covers information about firearms from brands such as Beretta, Browning, CZ, Glock, Mauser, and Remington. The website also lists gun accessories such as safes, gun racks, shot timers, shooting hearing protection, and weapon lights, and optics such as rifle scopes, spotting scopes, binoculars, monoculars, red dot sights, rangefinders, thermal imaging, and night vision.
