

Phoenix SEO Company Provides Free Consultations And SEO Audits

November 06, 2015

November 06, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Solar Flare Marketing, a search engine optimization company based out of Phoenix, Arizona, has begun providing free consultations and website SEO audits to new customers. This will be joined by a seven day flash sale promotional event which will also offer free SEO optimized press releases for every new client. The company has been clear in their hopes that their new free consults will provide potential clients with vital information on the many advantages of search engine optimization and what it can do for their companies. They have said the following regarding their work in this field: "We design a custom blueprint for online marketing, traffic generation and lead conversion based on the optimal keywords that have the highest traffic and conversion in your market. We're one of the top companies at ranking websites in Google's organic search and our results prove it."

SEO audits and consultations provide businesses with a realistic view of where their company currently ranks in search engines, and the types of services necessary to boost these numbers and increase traffic and revenue. Phoenix SEO has years of experience under their belt with solving the various problems associated with low rankings, and has reported that their services show high levels of success. They describe their efforts as follows: "Solar Flare Marketing is a cutting-edge internet marketing company designed to increase revenue for each and every client it accepts. We have developed a specialized team of SEO experts, social media marketers and website designers that are geared towards the future of the internet rather than focusing on the past. Our number one priority is the success of our customers and getting results."

The free SEO optimized press releases contain specially tailored information which helps companies become more noticed through online searches. This comes with the added benefit of providing a newsworthy update to possible potential customers and clients who come into contact with and read the release. The doubled benefits are described by the company as being a highly valuable asset, which will be provided for a short time at no charge to new clients.

New and existing customers are invited by the company to visit the Solar Flare Marketing Facebook Page. Connecting with the company through social media provides clients with links to interesting articles, blog updates, promotions and more.
