Bronx car accident lawyer Samantha Kucher (<https://www.rrklawgroup.com/when-is-it-too-late-to-get-a-lawyer-for-a-car-accident/>) releases a new article that explains the statute of limitations for filing a personal injury lawsuit. The lawyer mentions that no one is ever prepared for a car accident. Injuries from car accidents can significantly affect a person's life for a long-time.

According to the Bronx car accident lawyer, "You may have been transported to an emergency room and faced medical intervention to deal with your injuries. The days and weeks have slipped by, and you finally realized that while you have been focused on your healing, doctor's visits, and medical care, you have lost critical time away from work, and bills are piling up."

The lawyer explains that car accidents create mental and physical trauma and can leave the victim financially overwhelmed. In some cases, the bills even surpass the amount of the benefit the victim may get from the insurance company. This is why a car accident lawyer is important as soon as the victim is able to seek compensation for their injuries.

Attorney Samantha Kucher mentions that it is not too late for a victim to seek a personal injury lawyer unless the statute of limitations has run out. The statute of limitations for filing a lawsuit after a car accident is three years from the date of the accident. If there is a fatality, the family of the deceased party may file a wrongful death lawsuit.

In the article, attorney Kucher also says that New York has no-fault insurance laws. However, these laws might be limited in some aspects. If the accident was partially caused by another driver, they may also be held accountable for the injuries of the victim.

Furthermore, the car accident lawyer explains that insurance companies have the tendency to deny or shortchange claims and offer insufficient settlements. This is where an experienced personal injury lawyer comes in. The lawyer may be able to help the victim take the matter to court and receive the compensation they deserve.

Lastly, the lawyer emphasizes that it is important to seek the help of an experienced personal injury lawyer. A skilled lawyer may be able to guide the victim in seeking compensation for their injuries and also help them understand their legal rights, responsibilities, and options.
