February 28, 2022 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

February 2022: EHRC Web releases an online report that analyzes the causes behind youth violence. The article, published on EHRC Web's website, was produced by the company's experts in humanitarian affairs. The report was released to highlight youth violence and the reasons behind it. The full report can be found here.

Every day, thousands of young people are victimized by youth violence. The impact of youth violence extends to all communities, whether urban, suburban, rural, or tribal. Youth violence is concerningly common in the United States. 1 in 5 high school students report being bullied within school premises each year. For young people ages 10-24, homicide is the third leading cause of death. Approximately 12 young people fall victim to homicide each day, while nearly 1,400 are treated in emergency rooms for assault-related injuries. This report was designed to shed light on the serious issue of youth violence in the country with detailed information on its causes.

According to EHRC Web, their experts conducted thorough market research to compile the report. The publication aimed to highlight youth violence by guiding readers through what leads kids to engage in violent behavior. The report explained some main factors that could lead to violence in youngsters.

Since the launch of their site, EHRC Web has provided online resources and detailed research, reviews, analyses, and guides to inform readers on important issues and human interest stories that drive human connections and positive social change. The report was published as part of their regular research on human rights and law. It's critical that parents and educators of teenagers understand how frequent such aggressive conduct is. For understanding and taking proactive action, it's important to understand the causes of violence among teens. We hope to simplify the factors underlying violence in youth, through this report," said Founder and CEO Brian Cox of EHRC's website. He believes in providing readers with stories that drive human connections and encourage positive social change.

In its effort to help people understand important matters covering different societies and cultures worldwide, EHRC Web offers advice, aids, and practical tips on health, inspirational and informative articles on various topics related to mental and physical health, human rights, matters pertaining to law, and the legal workings. It also discusses innovations and the environment, pollution, and the impact of modern life on the environment.

We believe that people empowerment is important and they need to be well-informed on meaningful topics. With our resources, we bring forward new ways to provide information aimed at educating people in different aspects of society," said Cox.
