According to the company, ?While you may do a good job of cleaning up your ashes after every fire, soot can still collect on the walls of your fireplace and on the damper ledge. During a general fireplace cleaning, we professionally remove this accumulated soot. We also inspect the firebox, smoke chamber, and flue in the process to check for any blockages that could create dangerous conditions. These are the services we are providing in Oak Park and promise our customers that they will always get top-notch chimney and fireplace services from us. We have won numerous awards based on the exceptional services we provide and this explains why customers always come back for more services and refer others. Through this hard work, we have managed to become a top chimney and fireplace company in Chicago and the surrounding neighborhoods.?

Cleaning the chimney is recommended by the Chimney Safety Institute of America. This is because leaving the chimney uncleaned over a long period can lead to blockage. The collection of debris and tar in the chimney can prevent toxic smoke from the fireplace from venting out. The backflow of smoke into the house can be dangerous to human life and can also stain the interior of the house. Regular inspection is also recommended to ensure that the chimney structure and the fireplace are in good shape.
