

Palm Springs RE Agency Predicts Upsurge in Sales as Mask Mandates and Other COVID-19 Restrictions Are Lifted

March 11, 2022

Palm Springs, California - March 11, 2022 -
Palm Springs Area Real Estate, a real estate agency based in Palm Springs, CA, is predicting a big upsurge in visitors to the Palm Springs area this spring in search for real property to buy as the mask mandate and other COVID-19 restrictions are lifted. Starting February 28, 2022, people are no longer required to wear masks and will no longer have to show proof of vaccination or negative COVID-19 tests in restaurants and bars. The city had some of the strictest restrictions among the Coachella Valley cities. Previously, Palm Springs has even surpassed the state requirements, such as the outdoor mask and vaccination requirements, but after two consecutive weeks of decreases in cases, the city finally decided to remove the restrictions.

Geoffrey Moore from Palm Springs Area Real Estate says, ?This spring season, with the mask mandates finally lifted along with other restrictions, we can expect a huge upsurge in people getting out on the streets and looking for real property to buy. That?s the positive Palm Springs real estate buzz that we can share with you who are interested in the status of the real estate industry here in Palm Springs.?

Geoffrey Moore is a proud Palm Springs Realtor® and a native of Palo Alto, California. He had wanted to pursue a career as a professional ballet dancer so he joined the American Ballet Theatre and moved to New York City in 1986. After six years of dancing, he decided to change his career. He earned two degrees, one in economics and the other in statistics, from the San Francisco State University and then worked in various marketing positions.

However, he soon felt that the corporate world was not for him. He studied photography and one his own photography business in 2005 but he had to close shop because of the economic downtrend. It was then that he made his final career change. He finally realized that being a realtor was suitable for him. After getting the necessary education, certifications, and accreditations, he started his career of helping people find the properties that are most appropriate for their needs. And he does the service at no cost to the buyer. As a local area expert and with his skills as negotiator, Geoffrey Moore can get the best possible deal for the buyer.
