

My Pro Movers, a Company Moving Pianos in Northern Virginia, Gets Another Five Star Review

March 11, 2022

Washington, District of Columbia - March 11, 2022 -
MyProMovers, a piano moving company based in McLean, VA, is proud to announce that they have received another five star review from a satisfied customer. The company is a professional moving service for Northern Virginia, Maryland and Washington, DC., although they are focused on Northern Virginia and Fairfax County. Currently, they have an overall rating of 4.8 out of 5 stars on Google after receiving about 250 customer reviews.

In the recently received five star review, Chris G. said, ?MyProMovers are licensed piano movers, and offered us the best price. They came with the proper equipment and treated the piano with care. They called to let us know that they were running late and provided an updated ETA. The workers were very pleasant and professional. We would definitely use MyProMovers again.?

Tursun Alkau from MyProMovers says, ?We?re both proud and grateful for the highly positive review that we have received from Chris. We would like to thank Chris and other customers who have taken the time to give us some feedback. We?re certainly glad when we receive feedback from our customers, whether good or bad, because it tells us how we are doing. And we can make any necessary adjustments based on such feedback.? Those who would like to read their reviews can go to their Google Maps page.

The moving professionals at MyProMovers are all fully trained in the packing and transporting of pianos. They are licensed piano movers, which means that customers can have peace of mind in the knowledge that their pianos and organs are being packed and moved by licensed and insured piano movers. They are capable of providing packing and moving services for upright, baby grand pianos using specialized piano moving equipment and a team of experienced professional piano movers. They will fully wrap the piano and protect the floors of the home before they actually move the piano. They will also be using piano moving boards and custom piano dollies to relocate the piano. They will also disassemble the legs of the piano before moving it and then reassemble them in the new location.

For those who need temporary storage for the piano, MyProMovers offers a safe and comfortable storage space for the piano. This is located in Fairfax and it is possible to store the piano for a short-period of time or even for long-term. Another advantage of the piano storage service they provide is that it only requires one move. This is because MyProMovers will keep the piano in transit and only deliver it when the customer is ready. This reduces the planning time, avoids too much handling of the piano, and keeps the piano in the hands of just one mover.

Aside from moving pianos, MyProMovers also offers long distance moving services, local moving services, packing services, office moving services, storage services, labor only help, and gun safe move. With regards to their commercial office moving services, their primary concern is the productivity of the company?s staff. They will take the necessary steps to organize and make sure that the move is as fast and efficient as possible to minimize disruptions in the operations of the business.

Founded in 2017, MyProMovers is focused on providing a worry-free move for clients. They are a full-service national moving partner that will manage all aspects of the move from beginning to end. This is done through their trained movers who are professionals and know exactly how to pack, load, and move the items safely. They also provide proper planning, which means that the move is planned and scheduled properly and the client won?t be kept waiting or guessing. And they have all the equipment and tools needed for moving, such as moving aids, heavy-duty moving equipment, and protective moving supplies. And their employees are moving professionals with years of experience and they have all been background-checked, drug-tested, and fully-trained.
