Online retailer Pogi?s Pet Supplies is announcing that its compostable poop bags are available for purchase on Amazon, with free Prime shipping for anyone who wants a planet friendly option for picking up after their dog or other pet. The bags, which feature easy tie handles and a grab and go box design similar to that of a tissue box, have been certified compostable in both backyard and industrial strength composting systems by certification agencies worldwide. The plant-based material breaks down easily in compost piles and compost machines alike, making it a much more eco-friendly option for disposing of organic material than plastic bags which are not able to break down at all. The bags are extra large, measuring 7 inches by 14.5 inches with their handles, and are available in boxes of 120 bags for $12.99 and 250 bags for $19.99 on Amazon at https://www.amazon.com/dp/B08PKHWWWZ

For users who want something they can easily take on the go, Pogi?s Pet Supplies also sells compostable poop bags in small rolls that will fit a standard sized poop bag roll dispenser, and also has dispensers available, including a bundle that packs a year?s supply of compostable poop bags in rolls with two of their very own poop bag dispensers that can be attached to a leash or a key chain for the dog walker?s convenience.

As previously announced, the bags have been certified compostable by US, EU and Australian compost certification agencies which test how quickly a material or object breaks down under composting conditions.

Besides being compostable, the bags are sustainable as even the cardboard cores and packaging are made from recycled materials. In addition to the dog poop bags, Pogi?s Pet Supplies sells a number of other eco-friendly pet products for the environmentally conscious pet owner.
