Home and Garden America, located in Carson City, NV, is celebrating Thanksgiving by giving people the opportunity to buy survival seeds at a more affordable price. By entering coupon code JRGCRP48 at final checkout page on Amazon.com, customers will receive a $10 discount. This is the company's way of expressing gratitude for many different things.

Home and Garden America's Chuck Harmon says: "Thanksgiving is about being grateful and we are grateful for a lot of things. Naturally, we want to thank our customers for believing in us and continuing to purchase our products. In addition, we are also thankful for more esoteric things, like the fact that we have a planet to live on. Our heirloom seeds package is available at a lower price for Thanksgiving because we want to make it easier for people to give back to the planet."

The product is essentially a survival seeds bank, with over 105 varieties of plants contained in it. This is a terrific way for people to thank the planet, in a variety of different ways. First of all, they can keep the seeds in case of an emergency, at which point they will be able to grow them. Secondly, they can keep them as a seed bank, so that they can be returned to science after a cataclysmic event. Finally, people can use them to actually grow fruits and vegetables in the here and now.

"All our seeds are 100% non-GMO," adds Chuck Harmon. "We only want to put good things into the earth, thereby ensuring we continue to have a planet that can sustain the human population. When anyone plants the seeds, they will actually be giving back to Mother Earth instantly. That is our way of saying thank you this Thanksgiving."

The heirloom survival seeds come with a full explanation of how and when to sow and when the yield can be expected. The company also offers a very significant germination percentage, which some customers have experienced to be as high as 100%. This means that the seeds will actually be able to grow and bear fruits, be that to cover an emergency or just for people who are committed to growing their own.
