

Home And Garden America Celebrates Fall Season By Helping Customers Prepare A Vegetable Garden

November 06, 2015

November 06, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Carson City, NV company Home and Garden America is celebrating fall, the season where everything goes into hibernation, by offering their heirloom seed bank product at a special discount. By entering code VNWDZHMA at checkout, customers can receive a $10 discount on the vegetable garden seeds. The offer is only available until November 30, 2015.

Chuck Harmon, from Home and Garden America, stated that: "Fall is the period of time when everything seems to die and nothing grows anymore. In reality, however, it is a period of preparing, something that will really interest our survivalist customers. It is during fall that gardens have to be made winter ready and that seeds should be collected ready for the next growing season. We can help people take care of that element through our seed bank package, which contains 105 different heirloom seeds."

Home and Garden America also wants to make sure people know exactly how to get the most out of their seeds. While the package is suitable for survivalists who want to keep it in their pantries just in case, or for those who want to support the survival of the planet by keeping a seed bank, it is particularly suitable for immediate vegetable gardening.

"People may laugh at preppers, but the reality is that they are right," adds Chuck Harmon. "They are right because we are destroying our planet through pollution, deforestation, and so on. This is why our seed bank is 100% GMO-free. These seeds can go straight into the ground to start germinating and they will thereby play an important role in improving the sustainability of our planet overall."

It is important to understand that every plant seed is different. This is why customers who purchase the seed bank will be provided with full information on when and how to sow and yield the different plants. Fall is the time that plants lose their leaves and start to look dead, but it is actually the time for Mother Nature to recharge her batteries. Home and Garden America wants to make sure that when she wakes up again, she will have plenty of natural, healthy plants to work on.
