Denver, CO.- Mighty Dog Roofing is announcing it's now expanding into the Southwest Denver Metro area and is offering roll-off dumpster rentals and portable restrooms in a variety of sizes. Americans are spending more time than ever on waste removal, whether it's at a construction site, or in their own driveway, especially if they're also required to rent portable restrooms.

The Portable Sanitation Association International reported that construction companies waste at thousands of dollars a day on toilet time based on poor restroom placement. Construction companies and contractors in Southwest Denver Metro are no different.

For over 30 years, Mighty Dog Roofing has offered roll-off containers and portable restrooms to thousands of construction sites across the United States. Founder Jeff Matejka realized the need for efficiency and organization in construction sites and created the combo restroom and roll-off dumpster to increase convenience and savings for customers.

Today, Mighty Dog Roofing has a national presence throughout North America and the interest in the Mighty

Dog Roofing concept continues to grow. Mighty Dog Roofing offers its services to roofers, remodelers, home builders, window and siding specialists, water and fire remediation firms, and commercial contractors.

Based in Omaha, but with an executive team from all over the U.S. Mighty Dog Roofing is expanding quickly throughout the country wherever their decades of experience in high-quality waste removal services are needed. Mighty Dog Roofing has opened several new locations in the past couple of months alone, and now they're here to help Southwest Denver Metro.

Mighty Dog Roofing respects that most customers have time and project deadlines, which is why the company has streamlined its rental process to a simple phone call.
