March 25, 2022 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Seattle, WA ? Raymark Plumbing and Sewer, a provider of water heater repair in Seattle, WA, is proud to announce that they have reached an impressive milestone ? 45 years in business.

Over four decades ago, a plumber from England named Ray and a Seattle native named Mark began Raymark Plumbing and Sewer. Although Ray and Mark have now retired, Raymark Plumbing and Sewer continues to be a family-owned business with sisters Susan Hofacker and Margaret Hayes running the company. The first employee hired by Raymark, Dan Gardner, is still with the business, passing on his considerable knowledge to new technicians.

Raymark currently has 25 full-time employees and is the plumber that other Seattle plumbing businesses and long-time clients recommend, as they offer knowledge and experience in all sorts of plumbing and sewer situations. The workforce at Raymark is like a family and they are proud to say that each of their employees is professional, friendly, and trustworthy. They work together to resolve difficult issues and collaborate to ensure that their customers' needs are met. In addition, they offer training, assistance, and encouragement for continuous improvement to every member of their team.

Their technicians are trained to find the source of any plumbing issues and offer their customers both top-notch services and solutions. According to a Raymark representative, "we are the experts in water lines (water flowing into and inside your home), drain lines (water flowing out of and outside your home), leak repair, and water containment. We want your water to stay inside your hot water tank, inside the pipes and faucets, and inside your hoses. Raymark helps you keep ahead of leaks and away from water damage."

Founded in 1977, Raymark Plumbing & Sewer has been serving homeowners and residents of the greater Seattle area for over 40 years. Raymark is located on Lake City Way NE and provides 24/7 emergency plumbing services. To schedule a service, call 206-440-9077. Visit the Raymark website at <http://www.raymarkplumbing.com>.
