November 10, 2015 -
Hawkins Wealth Advisory LLC, a financial advisory company based in Phoenix, Arizona, has announced that Paul R. Becker will be releasing a report on money management platforms to his list of email subscribers, which is predominantly made up of advisors in the industry. Paul, who is the Director of the Board of Advisors for Hawkins Wealth Advisory, has stated that his goal won't be to discuss every platform for every type of investor, but rather, to pick the more widely used platforms. While discussing these platforms, he will be pointing out the pros and cons from a risk perspective. "Doing so will help readers understand why the best overall platform for the majority of most investors should be chosen based on a risk vs. reward point of view," he added.

The company stated that their goal is to provide information that is accurate and helpful, and to do this they needed to focus on platforms that have already been established, as most of their bugs have already been resolved through years of tweaking.

"When it comes to financial planning, a lot of factors need to be considered to ensure that people can do everything in their power to retire without risk. So, when losing money is no longer an option, you need to make sure that your time and money are invested into the right platform," stated Paul.

Hawkins Wealth Advisory LLC was developed over 18 years of research, and during this time, has specialized in financial-planning and business development both nationally and internationally. The company stated that their common goal is to ensure that the client is always first, as they believe that this is the best way in, "delivering extreme value and services simply not found elsewhere."
